

Author bios for

PRTE POSITION PAPER MAY 2015

Graduate Reading Education and Certification: The Significant Roles of Professors and Universities in Preparing Reading Specialists

Lucille Candeloro is a former graduate reading program director, K-12 curriculum director, elementary and secondary reading specialist, and elementary teacher. She is an educational consultant and current president of Pennsylvania Reading Teacher Educators, a Keystone State Reading Association special interest group of reading professors.

Annemarie Jay is a former language arts curriculum supervisor, a past-president of Keystone State Reading Association and of LEADER. She is former IRA Coordinator for Pennsylvania and former director of graduate and doctoral reading programs at Widener University. Currently, she is chair of ILA's Leadership for Literacy Committee.

We wish to acknowledge the collaboration and communication in this project by participants of the roundtable discussion from which all ideas for this article were drawn and the writing committee members who initially put those ideas into prose.

Writing Committee:

Mary Jo Campbell, Ed. D.
President, Keystone State Reading Association 2005-06
Treasurer, Pennsylvania Reading Teacher Educators
Edinboro University, Professor Emerita

Kevin Flanigan, Ed. D.
West Chester University, Professor

Stephanie Romano, Ed. D.
President, Keystone State Reading Association 2002-03
Secretary, Pennsylvania Reading Teacher Educators
East Stroudsburg University, Professor Emerita

Diane Santori, Ed. D.
President-Elect Pennsylvania Reading Teacher Educators
West Chester University, Associate Professor

Roundtable Discussion Participants:

Hollie D'Agata, M. Ed.
Marywood University, Adjunct Instructor

Jane Helman
President, Keystone State Reading Association 2013-14,
Marywood University, Adjunct Instructor

Catherine McGeehan, Ed. D.
Vice-President Pennsylvania Reading Teacher Educators
Kutztown University, Assistant Professor

Sue Ann Miller, Ed. D.
Webmaster, Pennsylvania Reading Teacher Educators
Educational Consultant

Mary Ann O'Neill, Ed. D.
Kutztown University, Associate Professor

Carol A. Smith, Ed. D.
West Chester University, Associate Professor
Literacy Department Chair

Shawn L. Watkins, Ed. D.
East Stroudsburg University, Assistant Professor

Katherine K. Weiner, M. Ed.
LaSalle University, Adjunct Instructor

Nanci Werner-Burke, Ph. D.
Mansfield University of Pennsylvania, Professor

We are grateful to Rita Bean, University of Pittsburgh, Professor Emerita, for her careful readings of and comments on our first drafts.